Vacancy Student Assistant

The Chair of African Legal Studies has two vacancies for student assistants with a monthly working time of 20 hours starting in January 2025. The position supports the Chair of African Legal Studies Teaching Team, especially the additional study programme International Legal Studies (ILS) at the Faculty of Law, Business and Economics.

Your responsibilities:

- Presentation of ILS in different events
- Regular preparation and update of the elective catalogue
- Communication with and support of students
- Communication with lecturers, the programme committee and other stakeholders
- Support of strategic development of ILS (e.g. development of internship programme)
- Development of further outreach initiatives for ILS
- Enhancement of administrative structures to manage ILS
- Support the development of teaching materials for courses taught at the Chair of African Legal Studies

Your profile:

- You can express yourself confidently in German and English.
- You are familiar with the law programmes at the Faculty of Law, Business and Economics, especially International Legal Studies.
- You have good Microsoft Office skills and are familiar with InDesign or Canva.
- You are motivated, reliable, flexible and work independently.
- Team spirit is important to you.
- You are interested in the courses offered by the Chair of African Legal Studies.
